DIRECTOR'S MESSAGE

Pro Bono has an important place in the nurturing of our future lawyers. It should be an integral part of every SMU Law student's training now and being a lawyer in future. Through a wide range of programmes, the Pro Bono Centre aims to help our students gain a deeper understanding of the needs of our society and the less privileged, and cultivate in them a sense of service – of what it means to give without expecting anything in return.

I'm proud and heartened that SMU Law students have continued to contribute actively to the pro bono scene in 2022. Nearly 30 legal awareness talks have been conducted on a variety of topics such as LPA, Wills, Rights of the Intellectually Disabled, Protection and Guardianship of Children, Divorce, and Abortion to the general public. They have also helped out in LPA certification for clients of Cornerstone Community Services, assisted caregivers of SUN-DAC in applying for deputyship orders, helped parents of special needs children from SNTC draft Wills and make CPF nominations, supported litigants in person at the State Courts, and assisted volunteer lawyers at legal clinics.

Student-initiated pro bono projects have also flourished. The Pro Bono Centre Mediation Clinic, offered in collaboration with the SMU Mediation and Negotiation Club, successfully concluded a case with the parties signing an agreement in March 2022. Project Lighthouse, initiated by students to support lawyers who take on cases from CLAS, LASCO and LAB, also assisted 10 lawyers in 18 cases since August 2021.

Although the average number of pro bono hours completed by the Class of 2022 registered a slight drop to 42.6 hours, this was not unexpected owing to fewer pro bono opportunities due to the Covid-19 restrictions. However, this is still more than double the required 20 pro bono hours mandated by SILE. I wish to acknowledge 3 JD graduates and 28 LLB graduates who completed at least 50 and 80 pro bono hours respectively, for their dedication and contribution.

DIRECTOR'S MESSAGE

I would also like to congratulate students who are receiving awards this year. Sarah Teo (JD) and Meher Malhotra (LLB) completed the most number of pro bono hours in their respective cohorts and will be receiving the Spirit of Pro Bono Hero Award. Kit Pang and Neo Yu Fan stand out among their peers for initiating Project Lighthouse and encouraging their classmates to take part in pro bono. Kit will be receiving the Spirit of Pro Bono Leadership Award while Yu Fan will be receiving the Spirit of Pro Bono Endeavour Award.

Our volunteer lawyers play a big part in inspiring and being role models for our future lawyers. The Spirit of Pro Bono Bronze Award is given to Alvin Sia, Charlotte Tan, and Jolie Giouw for having volunteered at the SMU PBC Legal Clinic for 5 years or more. Richard Tan receives the Spirit of Pro Bono Pinnacle Award for volunteering at the SMU PBC Legal Clinic the most number of times in 4 consecutive years.

The Pro Bono Centre aims to help students find purpose in their law studies and in their future careers. To this end, we launched a video in August 2022 featuring the pro bono efforts of students, volunteer lawyers and placement partners to showcase how each of them has made a difference by helping the vulnerable gain access to legal services. A physical pro bono fair was also held for the first time this year for student clubs and partner organisations to tell students, particularly law freshmen, about pro bono opportunities.

What Amelia Lim (LLB Class of 2022) said in the video best sums up the pro bono spirit, "You don't have to wait till you become a lawyer to help someone". In other words, if you have the desire to help someone, don't wait! Thank you to all the students for participating in pro bono, and thank you to all our volunteer lawyers and placement partners for helping students make Amelia's statement come true.

SPOTLIGHT

SARAH TEO

SPIRIT OF PRO BONO HERO AWARD (JD)

I grew up in a working-class family with an absent father who was abusive when he was present. One of the reasons why my mother refused to divorce him was because she could not afford the legal fees to do so and did not even know where to begin if she wanted to represent herself in a divorce. I specifically chose to do all of my pro bono at OSLAS and community legal clinics because I wanted to help those who are in similar situations as I was growing up.

Pro bono can be tough and time-consuming but it is very rewarding because you can make a difference in someone's life. You may not change the entire world but you can change the world of one person.

MEHER MALHOTRA

SPIRIT OF PRO BONO HERO AWARD (LLB)

My parents migrated to Singapore from India and only became Singaporeans recently. Throughout my life, I have witnessed their struggles to assimilate in a new country. This has helped me to understand the difficulties faced by migrant workers in Singapore. I am glad I had the chance to help foreign domestic workers during my time with Justice Without Borders on issues such as wrongful salary deductions, illegal deployment and abuse. I learnt how important it is to provide not just legal assistance but also emotional support when needed.

Pro Bono helped me to connect the dots between Law School and the outside world. Not only was it a fulfilling experience that added purpose to my legal education, it also helped me to appreciate the law and its power to help those in need.

SPOTLIGHT

KIT PANG

SPIRIT OF PRO BONO LEADERSHIP AWARD

Project Lighthouse was started by like-minded students with a heart to serve. I hope that more students will have the opportunity to assist lawyers taking on pro bono cases and help a greater number of people.

Doing good starts incrementally, semester by semester.

NEO YU FAN

SPIRIT OF PRO BONO ENDEAVOUR AWARD

I decided to initiate and co-lead Project Lighthouse because I wanted a meaningful summer, and beyond that, a meaningful experience in Law School. While browsing through the different pro bono opportunities available to students, I found that there was no opportunity for students to play a more involved role in pro bono work.

The question that came to me was, "If not me, then who, and if not now, then when?"

SPOTLIGHT

ALVIN SIA

SPIRIT OF PRO BONO BRONZE AWARD

I decided to start on my pro bono journey because I realised that there are many people in the community who are not familiar with the law or are “intimidated” by legalese and hence require assistance from a trained lawyer.

I have executed Wills and LPAs for very old or terminally ill patients who have subsequently passed on. This work left a lasting impression on me as it shows that life is fleeting. It also gave me a sense of satisfaction that I am able to assist them in their final day.

Being able to help someone is a privilege and brings a sense of satisfaction.

CHARLOTTE TAN

SPIRIT OF PRO BONO BRONZE AWARD

I entered Law School wanting to make a difference. I wanted to make the law more accessible to the people who needed protection. But as a corporate lawyer, I don't often deal with the areas of law that concern the man in the street, and it's easy to lose sight of the ideals I had as a student.

Pro Bono gives me the chance to give back. Through pro bono work, I've met troubled students, foreigners and elderly retirees – average people who just needed some legal guidance on the everyday issues they face. It's rewarding to be able to use my legal knowledge to help others.

As a lawyer, we can do something that others can't, so why not make it count?

SPOTLIGHT

JOLIE GIOUW

SPIRIT OF PRO BONO BRONZE AWARD

My family has always been supportive of my “extra-curricular” endeavours. My parents have always encouraged me to be involved with and give back to the community as much as I can, and my husband is also happy to help out at home to allow me to do what I find meaningful (notwithstanding a toddler and a new baby!).

It's a blessing to have the ability (whether in terms of skills, money or time) to make a difference in someone else's life no matter how small a difference it may be. I treasure every opportunity to do so.

RICHARD TAN

SPIRIT OF PRO BONO PINNACLE AWARD

I had been a volunteer in many organisations since school days and I started volunteering at the Law Society's legal clinics more than a decade ago. When SMU was looking for help to start its legal clinic, I volunteered as well.

As one of the fortunate minority who have benefitted from a legal education, I wanted to do something to help those who may not be able to pay for legal assistance. It is really a privilege to be able to help someone.

Doing pro bono work has helped me to realise the role that chance plays in life. It has also allowed me to make a difference in the lives of others.

WHAT PARTNER AGENCIES AND STUDENTS SAY

This was a very meaningful experience! I've learnt a lot, not just about Wills in general, but also about the practical realities of parents with special needs children. I look forward to embarking on more of such projects in the future!

SONIA LU, LLB CLASS OF 2024
Legal Awareness Talk on Wills

Thank you for helping our caregivers with today's iFAMS filing. We are grateful that [SMU Law student] Wen Qing extended her help even when she is in the midst of preparing for her exams.

LENG YEN LI, SOCIAL WORKER
Cerebral Palsy Alliance Singapore, Project iFAMS

I got to see how the problems the beneficiaries face can be overwhelming. I'm really thankful to have an opportunity to provide support to them.

LAURA SIM, LLB CLASS OF 2024
Legal Awareness Talk on Wills

If there is a six-star rating, I would definitely rate CJC and the volunteers a six star. They constantly helped me when I was filling up the documents. Thanks to CJC and [SMU Law student] Nicole with much appreciation.
